You want to work at a job that enables you to save for retirement and make your retirement years happy. Based on your hobbies, values, lifestyle preferences, and financial plan, you'll need to make a choice between a short- or long-term commitment. When it comes to securing your future and building a nest egg for your retirement years, the most important choice will be between a 6-figure dream job or a 9-figure dream job. Research conducted by Transamerica, a financial services and insurance company in the

US, discovered that most people are still struggling to meet their short-term financial goals and are already committed to their long-term financial goals. Investment research from the Federal Reserve Bank and the IMF shows that US households are carrying a slew of debt. Most households carry over two-thirds of their income in the form of housing costs and student loans. The cost of housing and student loans is becoming too expensive for more than a third of households. People are hurting as a result of mounting debt, and they need to take control of their financial futures. They need to begin thinking about and planning for their future by investing in their education, saving for retirement, and creating a healthy financial safety net. After that, the question is, do you have the willpower to pursue a 9-figure dream or spend your short-term efforts on a 6-figure job? If your answer is the latter, the best way to answer that question is to work backwards and examine your short-term choices. What are Your Short-term Choices? There are some things you can do to eliminate the most immediate and expensive choices from the equation.
